In the Matter of the Petition of the Subscribers, duly elected to be Assignees of the Estate of Jeremiah Colcord, of Brewer, in the County of Penobscot, on the first day of March, A. D. 1876.

To the Hon. Nelson Dingley, Jr., Judge of the District Court of the United States, within and for the District of Maine:

Respectfully represents the undersigned, Daniel J. Colcord, of Brewer, in said County, that he is a citizen of the United States, and resides within the District aforesaid; that on the 15th day of February, A. D. 1876, he was duly adjudged by this Honorable Court to be a Bankrupt, under the Acts of Congress relating to Bankruptcy; that he owns no property, real or personal, except such as is exempt from attachment and execution by the laws of the State of Maine, within the District aforesaid; that he has not concealed any part of his property or rights of property, and has not made any assignment, payment, conveyance or other disposition of his property or rights of property, which he is prohibited from making by the Acts of Congress relating to Bankruptcy; that he has not destroyed, concealed or left the jurisdiction of the District aforesaid, or removed any of his property therefrom, with the intent to hinder, delay or defraud his creditors; that he has not given his consent in writing to the proceedings in Bankruptcy, and that he does not desire to avail himself of the benefit of the Acts of Congress relating to Bankruptcy.

Wherefore he prays your Honor to grant to him your writ of supersedeas and injunction, restraining the prosecution of said proceedings in Bankruptcy, and that the moiety thereof belonging to him, to have and to hold to him and his heirs and assigns in fee simple, may be duly assigned and conveyed to him, and as in duty bound will ever pray.

Dated at Bangor, this 15th day of March, A. D. 1876.

POISONED ATMOSPHERE

We have frequently been wondering as to how long the public will be able to endure the miasmatic exhalations which come reeking daily from the columns of so-called public press which seems almost entirely given over to sensationalism. It has ever been the case of honorable journalists that any important or startling event has proved the signal for a host of cowardly mischief-makers to rush in with their foul and filthy stories, in which truth and decency are the most slightly considered elements. Each one tries to outdo his competitor in the production of some monstrous story, which will attract the public attention, and thus secure for him a larger circulation than his rivals. Thus from the day of the assassination of President Lincoln to the present, the correspondents and editors published upon Belknap's head crimes and robberies enough to appal a community. While the prosecutors have been industriously collecting evidence to sustain the original charges against him, the papers have daily teemed with new accusations, implicating him in gigantic robberies of every imaginable description. Among the charges a favorite one has been that of large frauds connected with contracts for headstones in the National Cemeteries, and Belknap has been credited with plundering the soldiers' graves in amounts varying from a million dollars down to a hundred thousand, probably the greater part of those who place reliance on what they see in print have long since been convinced that Belknap's robberies in this direction are quite small and enormous. And yet the correspondent of the N. Y. Evening Post exposed the intangible basis of all these sensational reports, by telegraphing the following authorized statement last Monday:

The House Military Committee are still investigating the contract for headstones for national cemeteries. The chairman says that the published accounts of the testimony taken are grossly inaccurate, and that the alleged "Bonanza" does not exist except in the imagination of some persons.

So with a positive charge printed in the N. Y. Tribune and telegraphed all over the country, that a Mr. Sargent of Manchester, N. H., was ready to prove that he paid Belknap $12,000 for a contract for heating a military prison. Now, that other Democratic organ, the Boston Post, prints a special explicitly denying the whole story, of Mr. Sargent's authority, and giving his positive statement that Belknap never received a cent from him, and that he obtained the contract without any influence. The correspondent vouches for Mr. Sargent's reliability, and thus explodes one more sensation. And this is a sample of the daily food furnished the public.

Now, if matters have to Belknap, as his present condition is such that a few additional charges of rascality, greater or less, will not practically affect the case against him. But still, we can afford to remember that even an impeached Cabinet officer has some rights which are guaranteed to the meanest and worst of criminals in this land of fair play and justice; and while—whether from conscious guilt of other motives—the accused remains unheard in his own defense, the manner in which sensational editors and hurling indictments at him seems the reverse of that spirit of equal and exact justice which is the boast of our civilization. Belknap has voluntarily retired from the public service in disgrace, and the demand is universal that he be subjected to the inexorable ordeals and the extreme penalties of our laws. But the public can best manifest its abhorrence of the crime by decorous procedure in fastening his guilt upon him, and the monumental scandals invented and set afloat day by day have only the effect to dwarf the appearance of the actual offences.

But while Belknap is the only prominent official indicted, charges as wild and as numerous as those against him, are bandied about with the names of every man holding any important trust under the Government. The reader of these sensations has no means of information by which to gauge or test them, and he is compelled to hold them in abeyance, if he can possibly remember them long enough to connect them with the contradictions which finally appear. If a lie travels leagues while the truth is putting on its boots, what of the Rorest searcher for fact to do amid the daily rubbish chase after scores of new ones? The daily issue of the average newspaper, with the views which have recently prevailed, would impress the ordinary mind with the belief that the people who look after public affairs were all in collusion to cover up the largest possible number of lies to the square inch.

A Democratic House, opposed to the existing Administration, and eager to make capital for a Presidential campaign, is running an unlimited number of secret questions, which afford the greatest opportunities for filling the air with baseless rumors, guesses, and fabrications. Those who are running these secret committees for political effect, have encouraged and stimulated the competition in the examination of scandal; there is no room to doubt [illegible] investigation would be more eager to serve to protect character and to reform the public, but that is not what the House and its investigators do want. They are seeking to poison the public atmosphere with an allegation of calumny, to the apparent belief that it is necessary to convince the people that all men are alike rascals, before they can drive the minority party be placed in control of the National Government, which it tried to destroy.

DARK LANTERN INQUISITIONS

[Boston Journal.]

Wherever, however, something very much like secrecy characterizes the manner in which the investigations are being conducted by the Democratic majority which controls the committees making them, Reporters are admitted at times to three or four of these inquisitorial tribunals, but upward of thirty are sitting with closed doors investigating matters of which are not permitted even to hear. What witnesses are testifying before them, and what is to come before them, are questions impossible to answer, and to obtain the information which is daily sought by the public, at the expense of the Government, is conclusively shown by the subsequent developments connected with this affair, as they naturally unfolded themselves. There was no man in the Nation more astounded, when the knowledge of his War Secretary's performances was made known to him, than President Grant. When he learned it, as is his custom he said but little; but that little was the words: "Is there no end to these Investigations?" He felt hurt, and doubly betrayed—betrayed by his capacity as an individual, and as the Chief Magistrate of the Republic. And when the Clymer committee, unless it was, until the circumstances to further deal with Belknap, refused and encouraged the then only witness in the matter, Marsh, to escape beyond American jurisdiction, in the face of, and in opposition to the earnest objections of the Republican members of that Committee, and when that committee took no means to secure the person of Belknap himself, the President very naturally concluded that reform in the hands of Democracy in 1876, was a myth of a wild-o'-the-wisp, affair, and in all cases good hands as Union and Liberty would have been in Democratic hands, keeping in 1861 and later. So he took the matter in charge himself, and secured Belknap, and now has Mr. Clymer's principal witness by Washington for him. They have found Marsh before a sub-committee of the House Judiciary Committee, but as to not regarded as a very reliable witness. He seems to be one of that class called "weak," when you take their statements before commencing an action, but when you take them to court have a very convenient memory, and play hide and seek behind it, so that while you have no doubt they have committed perjury you cannot show it. The impression has obtained, that his testimony will have but little weight with any party except as it is corroborated by other evidence or circumstances. It is now expected that Marsh's treacherous and plastic memory will be charged upon the Republican party by this bankrupt Democratic party, and taken to Connecticut, as an argument why that State should not vote with them. Should this alone be regarded as not quite sufficient to carry that State it would be well for them to adopt the suggestion of Jeff. Montgomery, the colored laborer in the Senate and of the Capitol, who is well known to many of your Bangor readers. "That de Democratic party hey dis year could dat goin-to-rain money de people every where, to the Pelican party, and go on dat a wade."

MAINE'S DELEGATION IN CONGRESS.—Maine has great reason to be proud of her delegation in Congress—the State in the Union but more. In looking over the Senate one is forcibly and favorably impressed with Maine's Senators, even in comparison with the Nation's best and foremost there. Their venerability, ability, and integrity, impress themselves upon the minds of all. No Senators' names are more frequently lauded by strangers visiting the Senate gallery than those of Mr Morrill and Mr. Hamlin of Maine. I have not heard Mr. Morrill speak this session, but there is no one in the United States Senate by whom I more readily, willingly and attentively listen, or, while entries more weight when he speaks than Senator Hamlin. He is believed in by the whole Senate and the heads of Departments. As an illustration I may cite a remark made to me a day or two ago by a prominent ex-Senator in this connection. Speaking of the time when Mr. Hamlin was Vice-President and presided over the Senate, he said: "Mr. Hamlin was the best presiding officer of the Senate I ever had. He was quick, decisive, and firm as a rock." Especially is Mr. Hamlin's record of Maine and Maine men.

Undoubtedly the Hon. James G. Blaine, from the old Third District of Maine, is the foremost man of all in the House of Representatives, the acknowledged leader of the Republican side, and the choice of Maine, and as it is believed most of the other States for the next President of the United States. He writes his honors with a dignified ease, which impresses all favorably, and gives him the respect even of his most bitter political opponents, who respect, while in a political sense, they fear his ability as a statesman, as perhaps that of no other man ever was feared in that body.

CONGRESS IN THE HOUSE GALLERIES.

It is amusing and exceedingly pleasing to a Maine man, to mingle in the crowd in the large galleries of the House, and there gather in the sentiments upon this Presidential question from all parts of the country. These galleries are daily filled by men from the North, the South, the East and the West, and never the same throng two days in succession. All classes, all parties, all callings, from all directions, are here represented, and sentiments flow free and easy. And it only may be allowed to judge by what he hears here, then Mr. Blaine is the most talked of man in the Nation, and that talk almost always in connection with the next Presidency and generally in his favor.

THE AMNESTY DEBATE.

The amnesty debate in the House, in which Mr. Blaine had the moral courage to take a part, and the statesmanship to conduct it to a triumphant termination, is doing for him in this country to-day, what the memorable discussion of President Lincoln, with Senator Douglass, in Illinois, did for Lincoln, in 1858. Many editions of the amnesty debate have been distributed by the National Republican Committee, and the Maine Republican Campaign Club, from this city, and yet the demand for them is increasing daily. During the last two weeks letters have constantly been received here by Senators, Members of Congress, the National Committee, clerks in the Departments and individuals, for copies of this amnesty debate. From every section of the country these orders come. This Democratic House need not entertain the hope that any can stop the circulation of this speech by any conceivable method of action. It will circulate itself. To-day I received a prominent Democrat from Illinois called upon me for a few copies of the amnesty speeches, saying that some Democratic friends in Texas had written him for them. It is not necessary for me to add, that they were promptly forwarded. As our German cousins say "Blaine is good." The education of Democratic voters is believed in, and the fact that might not prove a cool and discreet diplomatist. A great many people have been hurt by over-eagerness in rushing into print.

Heretofore, such men as Senator John B. Gordon, and Representative Ben. H. Hill of Georgia, have told to the North, the East and the West, that they were authorized to represent the sentiments of the South, and in doing so have pretended that the South acquiesced in the results of the late War; that they were willing to, and did acknowledge their mistake, but only insisted upon calling it a mistake, and would accept forgiveness, if the country wanted to forgive, and that they were ready to hug the Constitution to their bosoms, and go in for making this country and its institutions what the Fathers designed. Many of the loyal men of the Nation, were convinced that these pretences were real, and meant what they appeared to be, and the result was, this Democratic House was sent up here last December. A greater error, in regard to the true sentiments prevailing among the controlling people of a political party in any section of the country, never obtained. And it was for Mr. Blaine, to take that action which should expose this fatter fallacy, prick this hollow bubble, tear off the sugar coating from the poison pill of sedition prepared by the wily fellows of the South, before it should be swallowed, and bring home to the loyal men of that country, the knowledge of what these exhibitions really represent. Fearlessly and forcibly, Mr. Blaine performed this duty, in a House with a majority politically opposed to him, and able to vote him or any measure of his down at any time. How often has it been remarked of him, that it must have required a vast amount of moral courage on his part, to have attempted this thing, and run the risk of being swamped by the Democratic majority in the House of Representatives.

There is a determined feeling among Republicans and loyal men everywhere, to place no man of doubtful or ambiguous Republican antecedents, or intentions upon any office, or at the head of the Presidential ticket, so that no mistake shall be made. The man for President the great Republican party of the country has confidence in, and loves is James G. Blaine.

THE SECOND DOMICILE MYSTERY.

Another of Maine's Representatives, the Hon. Wm. P. Frye, of the Second District is fascinating to him self a Natural reputation. His very popular upon the stump; his effort in New Hampshire were most effectual. Many of the ablest orators in the country did service there during the late campaign, and I have been informed by parties who were upon the spot that Mr. Frye's arguments were the most telling of any. His services were so well appreciated in New Hampshire that the National and Congressional Republican Committees asked upon his speaking in Connecticut. He has gone, and we hear is doing a splendid work there. I will speak of others of the Maine Delegation in Congress, in future communication.

DOMESTIC NEWS.

FORTY-FOURTH CONGRESS—First Session.

Senate.

WASHINGTON, March 29.

Several bills, mostly of a local character, were presented and referred to the Senate at 10 o'clock, when the consideration of the Louisiana election bill was resumed.

Mr. Saulsbury, a Democratic Senator being in order, addressed the Senate in opposition to the measure. Mr. Spencer followed in support of the bill, opposing the admission of Mr. Packard, who was present and waiting to be sworn in.

Mr. Wallace spoke in favor of the House bill, and against the Louisiana bill. He was followed by Mr. Conkling, who opposed the Committee on Appropriations bill. He was followed by Mr. Morton in favor of the bill.

Various unanimous consents were asked for, and were all rejected.

Mr. Wallace moved to proceed to the consideration of the bill relative to the services of the existing Light-House Board, and to abolish the Board, and to create a new Board.

Mr. Morton moved to proceed to the consideration of the bill relative to the Louisiana election.

Mr. Wallace's motion was agreed to—yeas 35, nays 17.

Mr. Morton's motion was then agreed to.

On motion of Mr. Morton the resolution for the appointment of a Committee to inquire into the alleged frauds in the recent election of Mississippi was taken up and the unfinished business, and on motion of Mr. Cameron of Penn. the Senate at 2:50 o'clock went into Executive session and at 12:30 adjourned.

House.

Mr. Randall, chairman of the Committee on Appropriations, reported a bill to provide for the expenses of the administration of the General Executive Government, and moved the bill and said amendments concur at the Committee on Appropriations. In the course of his remarks he said that the estimates submitted by the Secretary of the Treasury in December last for the service of the fiscal year ending June 30, 1877, exceed the amounts of the bills as passed by the House by the large sum of $20,000,000. The bill reported from the Committee on Appropriations reduces the estimates of the Government about $1,500,000 below the bills as passed by the House. Mr. Banks of Massachusetts said he was in favor of the passage of the bill, although the Secretary of the Treasury would appoint to the duties of the examiners provided for in this bill, the men who had been recently discharged from the various Custom Houses on account of reductions in force. The debate could be well done. The bill passed.

The House then resumed consideration of the unfinished business, being the report of the committee on Military Affairs regulating the pay and allowances of officers of the army.

NEW YORK CITY.

The Reported Trouble in the N Y Custom House only a Sham.

NEW YORK, March 29. The reports of trouble in the New York Custom House, it seems originated with ex-Treasury Agent Sayre, who has made some frivolous charges against Assistant Collector Lydecker, which on investigation is said not to have sustained. Lydecker has been many years in the Custom House, is a Democrat and believed above suspicion.

WASHINGTON

The Impeachment of Belknap—The Five Charges

NEW YORK, March 29. The World's Washington special says the two articles of impeachment on which the Senate will be asked to try ex-Secretary Belknap, will be reported to the House Thursday. The counts have been reduced from 25 to 5, as follows: The first charges Belknap with receiving money corruptly while in office. The second charges bribery as defined by the statutes. The third charges the payment of money to Belknap for continuing corrupt persons in office. The fourth charges him with receiving gifts while in office to influence him corruptly. The fifth charges him with taking money corruptly for the use of himself and others.

Secretary Robeson and the Navy Fiscal Agents—The Transactions with Jay Cook, McCulloch & Co.

NEW YORK, March 29. The Herald's Washington special says, the House sub-Committee engaged in investigating the real estate pool, have been led to look into the transactions of Jay Cook & Co., who were debtors to the pool. They found Jay Cooke & Co. having transactions with Jay Cooke, McCulloch & Co., of London. The private creditors of the two houses have been embarrassed in procuring a settlement of their claims, by the Navy Department setting up a claim to be a preferred creditor. It was thought necessary by the Committee to discover what was the origin of and the reason for this preference, and in the course of the inquiry despatches have come to light, being obtained from the telegraph offices by the Committee under a subpœna duces tecum. These despatches are shelf, to prove, that when in Sept. 1873 the crash came, Jay Cooke & Co. practically transferred to the firm of Jay Cooke & Co., Mr. Robeson caused to be transferred to the house of Jay Cooke, McCulloch & Co., in London, $1,000,000, belonging to the Government follow, dating from Sept. 16, 1873, to Sept. 21 all showing that Robeson attempted with the Treasury Department to furnish the Navy Department with $1,500,000. Naval Pay-Director Cooke sent a draft for that amount in the sub-Treasury in New York to meet the draft of Jay Cooke & McCulloch & Co., in London.

A Series of Despatches

Robeson to be called by the Committee.

The despatch says Robeson will be called by the committee to explain the meaning of these transactions, and whether he really has the Government money to carry on a private banking firm through a period of this kind which went down in 1873 as a few months later. It is understood he got through the whole business without losing any money for the Government, and that he obtained securities to the full amount of the debt of the firm to the Navy Department, and that he now holds such of these securities as are not realized.

In a letter to the Committee dated March 30th, 1876, Robeson claims, proven by Jay Cooke, McCulloch & Co., against Jay Cooke & Co. of this country, amounting to $1,750,505. He holds these claims for aid, as collateral to secure Co. balance of the Foreign account of the Navy Department kept by Jay Cooke, McCulloch & Co. of London; also all agents of the Navy department abroad, to collect the claims for interest for our Foreign Navy Department. The balance now held by the Paymaster General Treasurer and Secretary Chaplains of the Government is $630,000. He also holds the following to the indebtedness of Jay Cooke, McCulloch & Co. First—A decree in the Circuit Court of the United States for the Eastern District of Penn. in favor of the Navy for the sum of $75,000 with interest from the 16th of March, 1868, which decree is still in force. Second—The negotiable securities of the United States held by the Treasurer of the United States and is entitled to the priority of all other claims or all creditors of the bankrupt partner of Jay Cooke, McCulloch & Co. Upon this—there has been paid $250,000, leaving a balance of $576,000.

Second—The negotiable securities to consist of about 12,000 tons of English railroad iron in the bonded warehouse in New York, New Orleans, Buffalo and Duluth, with some lots of about 4,500 tons in Canada.

Third—An original bond of the firm for $10,000 with security according to law.

Fourth—Four hundred and fifty-four $1,000 bonds of the Indiana Central & Illinois Central Railroad Co.

Fifth—One hundred and fifty-four $1,000 bonds of the St. Joseph & Denver Railroad Co.

Sixth—An assignment of the fully executed sale of Hugh McCulloch in Paris covered at $150,000.

Robeson Says.

They never kept the control of any collateral held by me as security to real indebtedness by any person or firm indebted, but some of the collaterals other than those above mentioned being notes and credits have been paid off and money received by the Government, and collected as debts, and some collateral not other than the above mentioned, have been sold for the agents of the firm with the assent of the Government, the proceeds being received by the Government and credited on account. The firm of Jay Cooke, McCulloch & Co. were no longer agents of the Navy Department, and have gone into liquidation under Executors. On account of the bankruptcy of several of the banking houses in the country which held the securities of the firm, which is in progress, the settlement has been delayed. Liquidation settlement has been delayed only by the complication of Debt in which Jay Cooke & Co. Mr. Robeson says he will furnish further details which he receives additional data from London.

Questions by Mr. Monroe.

Mr. Monroe asked Mr. Schenck whether it did not occur to him that while Park was bestowing favors on him, he was thus acting in order to secure his influence as Minister of the United States in the Emma Mine transactions.

Mr. Schenck replied that it never occurred to him that Park was seeking his influence in that direction. He believed that Park was a liberal and generous man, and having been instrumental in bringing him into the Emma Mine speculation, he was desirous of assisting him out of the difficulty.

Mr. Monroe asked Mr. Schenck whether it ever occurred to him that Park, by his personal kindness, wished to have him as counsel as a manager or or director.

Mr. Schenck did not so understand, but he had no doubt that Park and others would have been glad to have him serve as manager or director. There was a time in 1873 when not knowing what to think about the mine, he wrote to Park whose letter in reply he gave in the evidence yesterday. The letter went into an explanation of the condition of the mine.

A Question of Right.

Mr. Swann wished to know if Mr. Schenck now held to the doctrines heretofore expressed to Secretary Fish, that while holding the position of a United States Minister he had a right to go into the stock market and invest money without reference to his obligations to the Government.

Mr. Schenck answered that so long as he did not offend against public propriety, he had a right to buy and sell any kind of property, whether as a Minister, a member of Congress, or occupying any other capacity.

Mr. Swann asked Mr. Schenck whether he considered it right to engage in speculative stocks? Mr. Schenck replied that he thought he had sold such stocks. It would not, however, be commendable to go into the stock market, because this might be considered inconsistent with his position as Minister, but it would be right to buy and sell stocks in good faith, the same kind of property as Congressmen, or any other citizen, and he should not be prevented from doing so because of his official position.

Mr. Swann said: Understand you to say that you have two characters, what you please, as an ex-Minister and as a Representative of the Government.

Mr. Schenck—I do not so understand the question.

Mr. Swann—That is another question. Mr. Schenck repeated that he had a right to invest in any honest enterprise while acting in an official capacity, and no one had a right to censure him for so doing.

Mr. Faulkner asked what was the reputation of the Parties in Treasury Department letter of Chief Lyon, which was referred to Mr. Schenck as a prominent Director of the Emma Mine Company?

Mr. Schenck briefly spoke of the public services of the Portland Minister saying that his character was above reproach.

About the Directors.

In the course of the examination Mr. Schenck said that he made a mistake in omitting his name to the record as a director of the Emma Mine. He did not feel any concern in the matter, as he was connected with the Emma Mine. He did not believe that he could ever see that he could be charged with wrong in being a director. In Mr. Schenck's opinion, from the information he had obtained, and all moneys were expended in developing the mine, the property was valuable.

THE CURRENCY VOTE

The Washington correspondence of the N. Y. Tribune gives the following account of the vote by which the Payne bill, agreed upon by the conference committee, was defeated in the House on Monday:

The first day of the session of the House to-day gave the Democratic majority a chance to vote upon the Payne bill, and the bill for the resumption of specie payments in 1879. Traditional currency reform is to be broken as the Silver bill. The vote on the Payne bill while it settled the fate of the financial theories, was to Democratic members a test of their fidelity to the Democratic party. It was the first time the Democratic majority in the House had been called upon to vote upon a financial question involving the principles of their party. All the Democratic members were present except Mr. Caldwell, who is sick at his home in Tennessee. Mr. Caldwell is a Democrat, and would have voted against the Payne bill. Mr. Weaver, the Greenback member from Iowa, was also present. He is opposed to the Payne bill, and would have voted against it. It appears that 11 Democrats who voted against the Payne bill would have been defeated if the bill had passed. Some of these Democrats who voted against the bill declare that they will be defeated anyhow, and that they can't afford to vote for any measure which will be unpopular in their districts. Others declare that the Payne bill fails to meet the ultimate object of specie payments.

POLITICAL AND PERSONAL.

The Chicago Inter-Ocean is hard to please. It says that it would be well if Washington news.—Boston Globe.

Anne Dudley is bent upon trying his chances for Congress again next fall, and not on Tammany ticket. And the sarcasm is authorized by the report that Tall is not to run.

The Marysville (Cal.) Appeal, one of the best and ablest papers on the Independent side for the last three years, has come out squarely in favor of the Republican ticket for the approaching Presidential campaign. The Appeal says that it is generally understood for it that those independents in San Francisco who were formerly members of the Republican party will finally return to their old associations and vote against the vote of the Democratic party.

The World points out with great ability how it was that Mr. Sumner came to run away from Congress because he was fright-ened at a corrupt and degraded administration. But why did Marshall or our honest N. Y. Tribune

Lucius St. Paul Pioneer-Press, gladly says that the statement that Mr. Conkling has a majority of the Republican members of the Legislature of Minnesota is incorrect. No vote, formal or informal was ever taken, but of 24 Senators consulted re-garding their preference, 13 were for Blaine, 6 for Washburne, 2 for Bristow, and one each for several others. Of the House members consulted, the following is the record: Blaine 25, Washburne 6, Morton 3, Bristow 2, Grant 1 and one each for Buell, Gen. Hawley, Gen. Sherman and Cox—12 declining to declare their preferences.

The Boston Advertiser says that there were many politicians of very doubtful reputation in the Pennsylvania Democratic State Convention, including Cattell, who got a cadetship for $800; Dimmick, who bilk-mailed several banks and resigned to escape expulsion from the Legislature; F. A. Beamish, who is under indictment for stealing $1000 from the school fund, and a fabulous granger-functionist named Pickett.

The New York Evening Post's special writes: "If Mr. Randall's proposition to reduce all salaries 10 per centum becomes a law, there will be a general exodus of bureau officers, several having already liquidated their intention of resigning if their present salaries, which they assert are now too small, are cut down."

LEWISTON EXPORTS.—The extensive shipment of cotton goods to England is to become an important element in the manufacturing prosperity of this country. Our readers are aware that the Continental mills of Lewiston are making quite heavy shipments of cottons to Manchester, England. About one-quarter of the American production of print cloths in Fall River is now being sent to England, or at the rate of three millions per annum. Other places in New England, such as Lowell, Lawrence, Manchester, Biddeford and the cotton manufacturing districts of Rhode Island, are doing an extensive business in this respect. So far nearly five millions in value of cottons have been exported this year—double our whole goods export a few years ago. It is evident that this movement of American goods to Europe continues to increase, the revival of general business if this country will witness a revival of manufacturing such as we have never experienced. Then Lewiston will be ready to use the surplus water of the lake reservoirs of the Androscoggin.—Lewiston Journal.

In consequence of the severe test to which this pipe has been subjected during the past winter, we deem it necessary to call the attention of Engineers, Architects and Chemists, for the State of Maine, to the fact that we have complied with the requirements of the Board of Health of Massachusetts, which I have employed to make a thorough examination, and pronounce the pipe perfectly harmless, and possessing all the qualities claimed for it by the manufacturers. CENTAUR LINIMENTS.

White, for the Human Family.

Yellow, for Horses and Animals.

These Liniments are simply the wonder of the world. Their effects are little less than miraculous, yet there are some things which they will not do. They will not cure a cancer or mend the dead bones, but they will do more in the way of pain than any other remedies known. They will straighten the fingers, cured chronic rheumatism of many years standing, and taken the pain from terrible burns and scalds, which can never be done by any other remedy.

THE WHITE LINIMENT is for the human family. It will cure Rheumatism, Sciatica, or Neuralgia from the system in the shortest time, Chilblains, Frosted Feet, Ear-ache, Sore Throat, Lame Back, Bites of Insects, Sprains, Bruises, Cuts, Scalds, Burns, Frosted Hands and Feet, and the poison of bites and stings of venomous reptiles. It subdues swellings, and relieves pain of every description. One trial will convince the most skeptical of its superior qualities.

The Centaur Liniment is the most powerful remedy ever discovered for Sprains or Colic. It is used with great efficacy for Sore Throat, Croup, Colds, Coughs, Influenza, and Pneumonia, or Lung Fever. The following is but a couple of numerous testimonials:

PINEVILLE HOUSE, Jeff. Co., Ind., May 25, 1871.

Mr. Clark Bragg:—I am happy to inform you that I have not been sick from these saw-logs in eight years. Now I am perfectly well, thanks to the Centaur Liniment. The Liniment ought to be applied to every

BENJAMIN BROWN.

The proof is in the trial. It is probable that Benjamin Brown has been severely afflicted with Rheumatism, and the Centaur Liniment has cured him. To the sick and afflicted, it is kind and cheering. To the wounded and sore, it is a friend indeed. To the poor and distressed it is a treasure. Read what the Centaur Liniment will do for you. Circulars and pamphlets will be given without charge.

The Yellow Centaur Liniment

is adapted to the tough muscles, cords and tendons of horses and animals. It has performed wonderful cures in Spavin, Wind Galls, Sweeny, Ringbone, Curbs, Scratches, Scratches of Long Standing, Foundered Feet, Thrush, Diseases of the Stomach, Colic, Cholera Morbus, Garget in Cows, Caked Udder, Bots, Worms, Grubs, Lice, Ticks, Foot Rot in Sheep, and all other diseases and accidents to which these animals are liable. Every person who owns a horse, cow or sheep should have a bottle of this Liniment on hand. It will save many times its cost every year.

Both Liniments are for sale by all Druggists throughout the United States and Canada, and by dealers in medicine everywhere.

Price of each Liniment, 25 cents, 50 cents, and $1 per bottle.

The success of the Doctor in curing the above diseases is unparalleled in the history of medicine. He has cured cases that have been given up by other physicians as incurable, and challenges the world to produce his equal in curing the above diseases.

IN CANCERS AND TUMORS

he has no equal, as numerous cases can be referred to where he has cured after the knife and caustic had failed. He never fails to remove a Cancer or Tumor without the knife or caustic, and leaves no scar. He can tell every one who calls on him what ails them, and what will cure them, before they tell him a word. Those who doubt the power of Clairvoyance, call and judge for yourself.
